A MESSAGE FROM THE GRAND BASILEUS

Brother Warren G. Lee, Jr.,
38th Grand Basileus
Omega Psi Phi Fraternity, Inc.
3951 Snapfinger Parkway
Decatur, GA 30035

Warren G. Lee, Jr.
38th Grand Basileus

Dear Brothers of Omega Psi Phi,

Greetings! Now that we are in 2010, I am issuing a "Call to Conclave". We are finalizing preparations for the 76th International Grand Conclave of our illustrious Fraternity that will be held July 22-30th in Raleigh, North Carolina.

Our last national meeting was exciting, but we are looking to each of you to make the 2010 Conclave the biggest in our history. The Sixth District, the Iota Iota Chapter and a collaboration of Committees are working with relentless deliberation to provide a welcoming and receptive atmosphere for the thousands of Omega men that will travel to the capital city of Raleigh.

Our theme for the Grand Conclave is "Three Looks; One Focus! Family, Fraternity and Friends," honoring our brotherhood, our family and our beloved Omega. This is a year of national elections, and as I finalize the last Chapter of my administration, I encourage you to make plans to attend in record numbers. Let's work diligently to reclaim inactive members of our brotherhood and bring them to Raleigh. Now, more than ever, we need their help to keep our collective pledge and continued commitment to community uplift and public service.

We will soon unveil a comprehensive schedule of events for the Grand Conclave on our international website (www.oppf.org) that will also include Registration and hotel information. Stay tuned and make plans to attend as we claim that this will be the largest Grand Conclave in the history of the Fraternity.

We look toward July with great excitement and expectation. It will be a time of celebration, recognition, and fellowship. See you in Raleigh!

Fraternally,

Warren G. Lee, Jr.
Omega Psi Phi Fraternity, Inc.

FROM THE GUEST EDITOR TO THE ORACLE SPRING 2010

Greetings Brothers:

Omega Psi Phi has found her voice. The Oracle is the official organ of our beloved Fraternity. Across our great nation and around the world, The Oracle is the anticipated link that recognizes our triumphs, shares in our loss and celebrates our service to community.

This edition of The Oracle exemplifies the fraternal meaning of duty, trust and friendship. Each of us has a solemn responsibility towards one another. Our duty is to press forward head high to the finish representing Omega nobly and honorably through our good deeds. The opportunity to serve this great Fraternity as the Guest Editor to The Oracle (if only for sixty seconds' worth of distance run) is a duty held by very few brothers our the last ninety eight years. The success of The Oracle starts and ends with a brothers' duty at the chapter level.

Four months ago, there was some uncertainty regarding the direction of The Oracle. However, what was certain was the fact that we are Omega Men, we are friends, and Omega Men prevail! Entrusted by the Grand Basileus, and overwhelmingly supported by the massive amounts of submissions received worldwide, this edition of The Oracle will serve as a reminder of what Omega Men can accomplished (regardless of opinion) when we strive for one goal- finding Omega's voice once again.

I would like to thank my friends and supporters who made this successful journey possible. First, He is head of my house and life, the one I praise and glorify, my Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. Next, my wife, my friend Valencia, whose support, input and patience was appreciated through every late night. Brothers; Warren G. Lee, Jr., Burnel E. Coulon, Climent J. Edmond, Jr., Glenn Mathews, Charles Johnson, Jr., Michael A. Boykin and Glenn Rice thank you for the encouragement, advice and direction. Mr. Olu Adelabi, President of the Black Student Union at Columbia College in Chicago, IL, thank you for your time and the crash course in software publishing. Finally, to all of the District Directors of Public Relations and their respective District Representatives every submission was a remarkable testament to the Fraternity's Cardinal Principles of MANHOOD, SCHOLARSHIP, PERSEVERANCE and UPLIFT well done Ques!

My name is Brother Timothy W. Tyler 3-91-Omicron Theta, Guest Editor to The Oracle, Tenth District Director of Public Relations and a member of the Mu Xi Graduate Chapter in Glen Ellyn, IL. Here is your Spring 2010 edition of The Oracle. Enjoy!

FROM THE DESK OF THE GRAND COUNSELOR

Brother Michael R.D. Adams, Esq.

Throughout its 98-year history, Omega Psi Phi Fraternity, Incorporated, has been endowed with great service-oriented men from all occupations. While some of our causes have changed over the years, the mission of our Fraternity has remained unwearied.

Thousands of like-minded Omega men continue to contribute to our history of compassionate service. Each of us plays a very vital role in the progression of our beloved fraternal organization.

As Grand Counselor, this office have continually protected our constitution, bylaws, code of conduct and provided timely unbiased and independent assessment of all legal matters.

Among the highlights of the legal department have been: developed a risk management handbook; renegotiated general liability insurance for 2010-2011 term which includes an accidental health coverage up to $25,000; crime policy which covers theft, forgery and check alteration by graduate chapters, educational foundations, and undergraduate chapters. New guidelines for special event checklists have been developed.

Finally, as Grand Counselor, I have successfully managed and monitored all litigation and outstanding claims against the fraternity.

Thank you for your support, as this office has increased our stake in royalty collections, broadens our control on copyrighting our brands, and reduced our lawsuit liabilities.

Long Live Omega Psi Phi Fraternity!

A Message from Executive Director Brother George A. Smith

Greeting Brothers:

Let me take this time to publicly thank the fraternity for the opportunity to serve as the leader of your International Headquarters. Hopefully you have seen the improvement in efficiency and effectiveness of the operation of the International Headquarters. Over the last several years you have experienced the improvements to the website that has allowed the individual brother, chapter officers, and district officers to assume more responsibility for managing their records via My Page, Lockbox, and Track-It.

The role of the International Headquarters is to not only service the membership by processing dues, chapter and chapter assessment, and distributing membership cards and stickers, but to facilitate chapters and districts in performing the mandated programs of the fraternity and other programs that are unique to each chapter and district.

The International Headquarters is committed to:

- Improving its Membership Customer Service procedures. IHQ's objective is to process all transactions related to chapter assessments within 15 business days during peak season and 10 business days for non-peak season. Peak season occurs from December 1st through March 1st of each year.
- Providing tools (i.e. My Page, Lockbox, Track-It, and Official Email Addresses) that will allow chapter and district officers (District Representatives, District KRS, Chapter Basileus and Chapter KRS) to review and manage the records of members in their districts and chapters respectively.
- Improving the timely and accurate processing of dues, Life Membership Applications, Liability Insurance Payments, College Education Fund, and request for membership items (i.e. membership cards, anniversary pins, initiation pins and history books, etc.).
- Improving the timely submission of accurate initiation information and funds, and the timely issuance of new member material (i.e. membership cards, pin and history books, etc.).
- Providing information on Service Award eligibility and other member related information.
- Assisting in the planning, execution and managing of international events (i.e. Conclaves, Leadership Conferences, Undergraduate Summits, Supreme Council training, District Officer training, etc.).

Increasing the efficiency and the effectiveness of the International Headquarters is my goal. Using IHQ's resources to facilitate "Making a Difference in the Lives of Our People" is my objective!

Again thank you for the privilege of serving this great fraternity! May we work together for our common goal of Manhood, Scholarship, Perseverance, and UPLIFT to our communities.

Fraternally,
George A. Smith, Executive Director,
Omega Psi Phi Fraternity, Incorporated

The Undergraduate Summit- Focus on our Future

By Brother Dorsey C. Miller, Jr EdD., 35th Grand Basileus

On Friday, November 17, 1911, at Howard University in Washington D.C., three undergraduates, Edgar A. Love, Oscar J. Cooper and Frank Coleman along with their mentor, Dr. Ernest E. Just, founded the Omega Psi Phi Fraternity. Eighty-six years later in 1997, undergraduates were on the cusp of destroying what undergraduates in 1911 had built.

By the year 1997 Omega Psi Phi was facing challenges that were bringing this great and proud brotherhood close to its demise. For years a new culture was being perpetuated by brothers, mostly undergraduate, who appeared to be unaware of the founding principles of the fraternity. Therefore, in 1997 I imposed a moratorium on pledging by undergraduate chapters. This was done primarily to provide leadership training, re-emphasize the fraternity's "reason for being" and to better assess and correct problems that had surfaced in the intake program.

In January 1998, the fraternity held the first Undergraduate Summit in Atlanta, Georgia. All undergraduate chapters were required to attend. The 31st Grand Basileus, Burnell Coulon, provided invaluable assistance in developing and implementing the program for the summit. The program consisted of workshops and presentations by former Grand Basilei. The participation of former Grand Basilei was key to providing undergraduate brothers an opportunity to interact with the "torchbearers" of Omega.

The summit provides a unique opportunity for undergraduate brothers to learn and showcase leadership skills and to attain the knowledge and ability to operate their chapters as prescribed by the fraternity. We must not underestimate the value of the undergraduate summit for it is the singular event wherein the fraternity's focus is on undergraduate brothers.

At the end of the first summit, I made the following statement: "My love for Omega and you, my brothers knows no bounds, and I am certain that the recent steps we have taken will help build strong bonds of friendship and brotherhood that will serve Omega well and last long into the new millennium." I believed that in 1998 and I believe that now!

“WHO DAT” New Orleans, LA

Brother Drew was initiated into the Fraternity through Alpha Psi Chapter in 1923. In 1938, while on a fellowship at Columbia University's medical school in New York, Drew worked on a blood chemistry and transfusion research team that sought methods to preserve blood over long periods. Red cells, one of the four elements of blood, begin to break down after 24 hours and cause stored blood to be unsafe for use after one week. Drew achieved success using the plasma element of blood which, since it does not contain red cells, could be safely stored for months and given to anyone regardless of their blood type.

While he was serving on the faculty of Howard University, Drew along with Mercer Cook composed, "Omega Dear." Cook, a professor of languages at Howard, wrote the music and first stanza; Drew wrote the last two stanzas. The song was adopted as the official hymn for the Fraternity in 1931.

In 1938, Drew was awarded a two-year Rockefeller fellowship in surgery and he began postgraduate work, earning his Doctor of Science in Surgery at Columbia University. His doctoral thesis, "Banked Blood" was based on an exhaustive study of blood preservation techniques. It was while he was engaged in research at Columbia's Presbyterian Hospital.

The military emergency of World War II had a demanding vital need for information and procedures on how to preserve blood. As the European war scene became more violent and the need for blood plasma intensified, Drew, as the leading authority in the field, was selected as the full-time medical director of the Blood for Britain project. He supervised the successful collection of 14,500 pints of vital plasma for the British.

In February 1941, Drew was appointed director of the first American Red Cross Blood Bank, in charge of blood for use by the U.S. Army and Navy. During this time, Drew agitated the authorities to stop excluding the blood of African-Americans from plasma-supply networks, and in 1942, he resigned his official posts after the armed forces ruled that the blood of African-Americans would be accepted but would have to be stored separately from that of whites.

The NAACP awarded Brother Drew the Spingarn Medal in 1944 in recognition of his work on the British and American projects. Virginia State College presented him an honorary doctor of science degree in 1945, as did his alma mater Amherst in 1947. In 1981, the U.S. Postal Service paid tribute to Drew by issuing in his honor, a stamp in the "Greatest Americans" series.

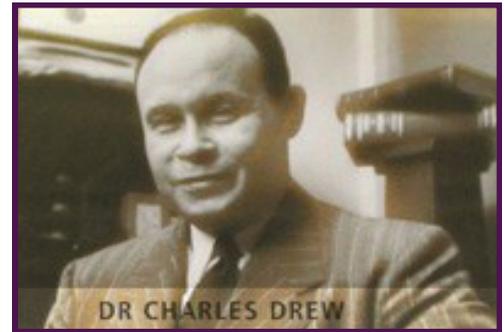

Today, hundreds of Omega chapters worldwide honors Drew by sponsoring annual blood and bone marrow registry drives in association with the American Red Cross.

The United States Navy Launches the USNS Charles R. Drew in Honor of a True American Pioneer

The USNS Charles R. Drew was launched on a rain-soaked February morning in a San Diego shipping bay with a ceremonial smashing of a champagne bottle against the ship's hull.

A crowd of nearly 1,300 witnessed as the a 689-foot Navy ship named in honor of Charles R. Drew, a surgeon, hematologist, African American medical pioneer and son of Omega sped its way into the Pacific Ocean.

It also is the first naval ship named in honor of a member of Omega Psi Phi Fraternity. "It was an extraordinary honor," said his daughter, Charlene Drew Jarvis later told the Washington Post. "The whole weekend has been emotional because I was a 9-year-old girl when my father died." Other members of the Drew family, including his nephew, former NASA deputy administrator, Bro. Fredrick Drew Gregory, also attended the event.

Several members of the Supreme Council, including First Vice Grand Basileus Carl A. Blunt attended the ceremony. "This is indeed a joyous and historic occasion that should make all Omega men proud," Blunt said. Also in attendance were numerous members from various chapters in the 12th District, including 12th District Representative Sedrick Spencer.

The formal launch included the entire Drew family and a speech from Surgeon General Regina Benjamin. The supply ship will deliver food, ammunition and fuel to combat ships at sea. Attendees saw Bebe Drew Price, the oldest of the three Drew sisters, swung the traditional bottle of champagne. The vessel was named after Drew for his groundbreaking work in storing and transferring blood, which saved untold lives in World War II.

The Washington native died in 1950 from severe injuries in a car accident, not -- despite persistent urban myths -- from being denied hospital care because he was black. He was only 45, but already a nationally recognized figure.

In 2008, Secretary of the Navy Donald Winter selected Drew to join ships named after other explorers and pioneers: Lewis and Clark, Sacagawea, Alan Shepard, Robert Peary, Amelia Earhart, Carl Brashear and Wally Schirra. The USNS Charles Drew is the tenth ship of the Lewis and Clark (T-AKE) class of dry cargo-ammunition ships for the Navy, and the first U.S. Navy ship to be named after Drew. When the Charles Drew joins the fleet, its primary mission will be to deliver nearly 10,000 tons of food, ammunition, fuel and other provisions to combat ships on the move at sea.

Joseph Leonard

Brother Major General Charles F. Bolden, Jr.

Administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA)

NASA Administrator, Brother Charles Bolden Jr., has said that Mars remains the ultimate goal of human space exploration.

Bolden, a no-nonsense retired Marine Corps general and a veteran of four space shuttle flights, was appointed the first African-American to run the nation's space agency earlier this year.

One of Brother Bolden's ambition as the NASA administrator is to inspire the rising generation of children to consider careers in the fields of science and engineering. He also will seek to enhance NASA's ability and expertise in understanding Earth's environment.

High on his "to-do list" calls for exploring the solar system is development of advanced technologies. Bolden has proposed that the space agency develop "new capabilities" needed to "align NASA for the future."

Brother Bolden grew up in segregated South Carolina and later earned a commission to the U.S. Naval Academy. As a Marine aviator, he flew more than 100 sorties over North and South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia. Years later, he served in the Persian Gulf before retiring from the Marine Corps in 2004.

He commanded two shuttle missions, the last in 1994, and has more than 680 hours in space. He has served in a variety of other positions at the space agency, including as an assistant deputy administrator.

However, he is not the only Omega who has ventured into space and excelled at NASA.

Brother Frederick Drew Gregory, a retired United States Air Force colonel, is a former NASA Deputy Administrator. Brother Ronald Ervin McNair, who earned a Ph.D. in physics from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1976, became a member of NASA's elite Space Shuttle program. In February 1984, he first orbited the earth aboard the Challenger.

In 1986, Dr. McNair perished along with six fellow crewmembers aboard the ill-fated shuttle, Challenger.

Brother Roger L. Gregory

United States Circuit Judge

United States Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit
Lewis F. Powell, Jr. United States Courthouse
Richmond, Virginia

As the first African-American to be appointed to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit, Judge Roger L. Gregory has been judicial pioneer and trailblazer.

The circuit court covers five Mid-Atlantic States and has a greater percentage of black citizens than the other 10 regional circuit courts, yet prior to Judge Gregory's appointment, it is the only court never to have had a black member. Judge Gregory was a recess appointment to the United States Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit by President Bill Clinton in June 2000. The U.S. Senate confirmed him in 2001 when President George W. Bush reappointed him.

Judge Gregory has extensive civic involvement includes service on the boards in Virginia. Those include the NAACP, the Richmond Arts Council, Richmond Renaissance, Virginia State University Board of Visitors and the Black Museum and Cultural Center of Virginia, to name a few.

Judge Gregory is a 1975 graduate of Virginia State University who earned a law degree from the University of Michigan Law School. He then returned to teach part time at Virginia State, where his mother had worked as a maid. He had worked at law firms in Michigan and Virginia before establishing the law firm Wilder and Gregory in Richmond with Douglas Wilder, who later became Governor. Until his appointment to the U.S. Circuit Court in 2001, Judge Gregory was managing partner and head of the firm's litigation section. At the time, he was appointed White House officials said Judge Gregory was the first in his family to go to high school and "a testament to the power and promise of the American dream."

The Fourth Circuit is also widely viewed as the most aggressively conservative of the appeals courts, often providing novel and cutting-edge rulings. It is one level below the U.S. Supreme Court, is by far the most restrictive appeals court in the nation in granting new hearings in death penalty cases, according to several statistical studies.

Brother Joseph Leonard, Jr. PhD,

Assistant Secretary for Civil Rights
United States Department of Agriculture

Brother Joe Leonard, Jr. was born in Austin, Texas in 1966. He received his Bachelor of Arts degree in history from Huston-Tillotson College in Austin. Following graduation Brother Leonard moved to Louisiana and taught in Louisiana public schools for seven years, while teaching Brother Leonard received his Master of Arts degree from Southern University in Baton Rouge.

In 1996, Brother Leonard moved to Washington, DC where he began working on his Ph.D. in civil rights history at Howard University. In Washington, Brother Leonard worked for three years for the Center for Policy Alternatives, a progressive public policy "think tank" where he served as a coordinator in the Southeast Policy Leaders Forum and as Director of the Arthur Fleming Fellows Institute. The Fleming Institute is one of the most prestigious leadership forums for state legislators in the country. In addition, he has taught as an adjunct professor at Bowie State University and Howard University. In December 2004 Brother Leonard completed the requirements for the Ph.D. in history at Howard University.

Before joining USDA, Brother Leonard served as Senior Advisor to Representative Carolyn Cheeks Kilpatrick (D-MI), and Executive Director of the Congressional Black Caucus (CBC). While at the CBC, Brother Leonard managed the daily activities of the Caucus and helped guide the legislative policy for its 43 congressional members.

Prior to his role at the CBC, Brother Leonard served as the Executive Director of the Black Leadership Forum, an umbrella organization of 32 member groups that together work to develop and implement progressive public policies for social change. He has also served as the Washington, DC Bureau Chief of the Rainbow/ PUSH Coalition.

On April 6, 2009, Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack swore in Brother Joe Leonard, Jr., as Assistant Secretary for Civil Rights. Brother Leonard was nominated by President Barack Obama and confirmed by the U.S. Senate on April 2, 2009.

Brother Teddy B. Taylor,

United States Ambassador to the South Pacific

You now can call Brother Teddy B. Taylor, "his Excellency." Brother Taylor, the immediate past Basileus Gamma Pi chapter, was named by President Obama as Ambassador to Papua New Guinea, the Solomon Islands and the Republic of Vanuatu, an area also known as Melanesia. The title, "his Excellency," in diplomatic parlance, will serve a three-year assignment.

Brother Dr. Paul D. Adams,
Biophysicist

Brother Dr. Paul D. Adams, a University of Arkansas biochemist, studies a family of cell regulation proteins involved in cell growth regulation and cancer. Since 2007, his research has garnered more than $1.3 million in funding from the National Institutes of Health (NIH) and the National Science Foundation (NSF).

This past September, Brother Adams, assistant professor of chemistry, biochemistry, cellular and molecular biology since 2007, received a two year $108,000 grant from the NIH to perform studies on mutant proteins involved in cell growth regulation that may play a role in cancer. "One of the hallmarks of cancer cells is that they do not turn off; they keep growing," Adams says. "Our goal is to find ways to eradicate this behavior."

Adams studies a member of the Ras (Ras sarcoma) family of proteins that is involved in cell growth regulation. His laboratory has characterized molecular details of engineered mutants of the protein with interesting results. "If you engineer chemical differences in what you think are important regions of a protein, you can determine how vital these regions really are to the function of the protein," Adams said. "Ultimately we want to use this information to determine the important aspects of proteins that might be subsequently targeted for future drug design approaches."

Since arriving at the University of Arkansas, Brother Adams has received the Robert C. and Sandra Connor Endowed Faculty Fellowship (2007-2008). He has held national appointments on review panels in molecular biochemistry and cellular signaling at the NSF. He has served as a review councilor for the Ohio Cancer Research Associates, and, in December of 2009, was recommended to be an expert reviewer for the Louisiana Board of Regents' Research Competitiveness Grants Subprogram. His research team includes two postdoctoral scientists, two graduate students, and six undergraduate students.

Born in Baton Rouge, Louisiana, Brother Adams obtained a B.S. degree (Biochemistry) from Louisiana State University (LSU), and a Ph.D. (Biochemistry) from Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland, OH. Prior to the University of Arkansas, Brother Adams was a postdoctoral scholar in the department of molecular medicine at Cornell University in Ithaca, NY from 2000 to 2006.

He was initiated into Theta Kappa Chapter, LSU in the Spring of 1989. While a LSU graduate student, Brother Adams was a charter member of Lambda Kappa Kappa Graduate Chapter in Baton Rouge, LA in 1995. After celebrating twenty years of service in Omega, Brother Adams still considers Omega's work important and ongoing. He serves as Vice Basileus of Upsilon Chi Graduate Chapter in Northwest Arkansas and as undergraduate advisor to Gamma Eta Chapter at the University of Arkansas. He is married to his lovely wife, Stephanie, and has two children: Sydni and Paul Dante'. Brother Adams and his wife are expecting a third child due in January of 2010.

The Steward children were very excited to see so many gifts come to their home from people they'd never met. After a prayer by Vice-Basileus Greg Jackson, the brothers began placing the children's gifts under the tree. Basileus Dennis Anderson presented Ms. Steward with various products in which she could pamper herself. The children were given many new clothes, such as; shirts, blouses, pants, dresses, sweaters, and boots, for the cold Chicago winter days ahead.

The last of the items were food. Ms. Steward was wondering what she would prepare for Christmas dinner until she was given two large turkeys, other food items and gift cards to shop for more food. Overall, she was overwhelmed by the graciousness of Omega's brotherhood.

Eta Omega Host Christmas Party

By Brother Stedman S. Southall

Atlanta, GA - Saturday December 4, 2009, Eta Omega Chapter's 2009 Christmas Party shared the joy of Christmas with young people at the historic Butler Street YMCA. The Christmas Party was a great success of fun and joy as the Chapter interacted with the community to benefit young children. Forty-two children and their parents were Eta Omega Chapter's guests at the Christmas Party. The Christmas Party was a fun time for all in attendance, there were games, prizes, food and gifts. Eta Omega Chapter's Social Action Committee sponsored the Christmas Party.

The Party guests were from four Atlanta area YMCA's (the John Lucas YMCA, Westside YMCA, Eastside YMCA and Butler Street YMCA). The Chapter was recognized by Mr. John Reid, Vice President for Community Outreach of the Butler Street YMCA. Mr. Reid and the assembled guests applauded Eta Omega for its outpouring of generosity. Basileus, Brother Joseph Robertson spoke on behalf of Eta Omega. Brother Robertson welcomed all to the Party, gave a brief history of the Chapter and the Fraternity, and explained that the party was occurring during the chapter's 90th anniversary.

This was truly a fun morning and great Party! In the great spirit of fun that permeated the party, the guests asked the Brothers to "step". We all know the brothers can not withdraw from a call to "march". Therefore, the chapter brothers presented "an impromptu step show". Next, the brothers led the children in games, with prizes for the winners. After "steppin" and games, it was time for food. After refreshments, gifts were given to the children. The children ranged in ages from three to fifteen years of age. Each child attending the Party received a gift. Eta Omega Chapter's Social Action Committee worked mightily to insure Christmas cheer was shared with some deserving children.

Gamma Phi Chapter Mentors 4th Grade Boys at Bordeaux Elementary

By Brother Clint Boyd, Jr.

Nashville, TN - Members of Gamma Phi Chapter of Omega Psi Phi Fraternity, Inc. recently visited Bordeaux Enhanced Option Elementary School in Nashville, TN to mentor 4th grade boys. The visit was the last of a multi-session mentoring program the chapter conducts for the school each year. The chapter's involvement with Bordeaux Enhanced Option Elementary began in 2007 with semiannual visits to the school. Positive feedback from the students, teachers and administrators led to more frequent visits. Each visit usually involves three to five chapter members with backgrounds related to the topic of discussion. To date, those topics have included money management, law enforcement, fire safety, science & engineering, career goals and etiquette. Each discussion reinforces the benefits of a good education, and stresses good study habits. Chapter members also participated in the school's Dr. Seuss Read-a-thon Week, by reading to students in multiple classrooms.

Omega Brothers Robert Bostick, Clint Boyd, Jr., Sean Waller, and Tony Driver participated in the May 2009 visit to the school. The 4th grade boys will be attending middle school next year, so the session focused on peer pressure and the challenges of entering a new school environment. The session also covered table etiquette, how to tie a tie, teamwork, and respect. The boys participated in role-plays focused on resisting joining a gang and avoiding drugs and alcohol. The chapter will participate with the new 4th graders at Bordeaux starting in the fall of 2009.

Psi Tau Chapter Supports Local Diabetes Walk

By Brother Ed Clark

Lexington, KY – On Saturday May 30, 2009 Psi Tau Chapter stepped out to support the Annual Diabetes Walk. There is a great need to increase awareness among men, women and children on the importance of physical activity, proper nutrition and keeping a healthy outlook to control stress. Statistics have consistently shown that when African-American men have diabetes, they are more likely develop one or more of the serious complications associated with the disease, including amputation, kidney failure, blindness, and cardiovascular disease. For example, African Americans are 1.5 to 2.5 times more likely to have a limb amputated than are others with diabetes.

Throughout the day, the emphasis was on education. Education is the key to assisting those that have the disease, as well as those that may potentially develop the disease over time. As Omega men, we must step forth and take the lead to assure the next generation that this painful and heartless disease will not remain the number silent killer to African-Americans.

The occasion was appreciated by numerous brothers and family members who enjoyed fellowshiping with other brothers and community leaders who are also seeking to make a difference.

"Englewood Back to School Parade"

Submitted By Brother Lemarr Ketchens

Chicago, IL- As it is very well known, the city of Chicago can be a very dangerous place. The community of Englewood (located on the south side) is known to be very dangerous at times, but it received a beam of positive news on Saturday, August 22, 2009.

That is the date that the Englewood Back to School Parade took place. This was their 48th Parade and the men of Omega Psi Phi Fraternity, Incorporated would not allow this event to go by without giving back to this particular community. As in the past, Omegas were to, serve as Parade Marshals, bring and distribute school supplies in the form of fully packed book bags, and help out where needed.

Rho Gamma Gamma Chapter put forth a task to bring 500 fully packed book bags this year. To do this, PGG requested that other chapters get involved to help reach that goal. Nearly 400 book bags were given from; Rho Gamma Gamma Chapter, other brothers and friends. The brothers of Iota Chapter brought 60 book bags that they gave away as well, which brought the total to 500.

Chicagoques from Iota, Rho Gamma Gamma, Mu Xi, and Sigma Omega Chapters were in attendance chipping-in in various ways. Some contributed by bringing book bags, others marched and marshaled in the parade, others helped with crowd control, others helped with the food distribution, and others helped with the book bag distribution. All Omegas working together to bring forth a very positive day for the community of Englewood.

Of course, it should go without saying that another Social Action event was successful due to the collective works of Brothers Keith Mayes & Michael Johnson. Coupled with the hard workers of Rho Gamma Gamma, other chapters and friends, the Omegas did a good thing in giving back to the Englewood Community.

A special thanks to Zeta Phi Beta Sorority, Inc. (Zeta Tau Zeta Chapter) because they donated book bags and some school supplies to the cause, which was very successful. Great Job!

Lastly, a young lady stated that she was extremely impressed with how the men in Purple and Gold take care of business - both with the food and book bags.

Omega Men to the Rescue

By Brother Herb Ford

Douglasville, GA - Brothers and members from various chapters of Omega Psi Phi Fraternity, Incorporated (Chi Gamma Gamma & Phi Kappa Kappa) answered the call for help on Friday, September 25th and Saturday September 26th in Cobb, Paulding, and Douglasville County Georgia. Five days of rain from earlier in the week caused riverbanks to overrun and sewage to overflow causing local schools, highways and roads to close. Nearly 250 million dollars in damage was caused by the storm. The email went out Friday indicating members of Turner Chapel AME Church were affected heavily by the storm and flood water.

The Omegas mobilized teams of brothers to various areas of the flood stricken community. The clean up process began Friday with the removal of water logged furniture, padding, and carpet. Saturday continued with the gutting process. Tons of wet drywall, flooring, and installation was removed as the Omegas brought manpower in organized teams of brothers to the various areas of the community to help. The recovery process will be a long and costly one; however the Brothers will continue to provide support throughout the process.

Brother (Rev.) Jesse Jackson Still Lives the Dream Today

Bloomington, IN - Brother Jesse Jackson, Sr. was the keynote speaker for the Martin Luther King Jr. Day celebration held at the downtown Buskirk-Chumley Theater on January 18, 2010.

The diverse audience welcomed Brother Jackson with a standing ovation as he made his way to the podium. He began his speech with imploring the audience to repeat his famous "I am somebody" several times. He continued his speech that had topics relating to Wall Street, current job market, health care, Haiti's recent devastating earthquake, football, and the real dream of Dr. King.

Brother Jackson stated that "this is a time for us to rise together" and make the playing field level again. He said that in order for us to follow the dream of Dr. King we had to study the man and his body of work. He said the dream was not a dream but a deal the America has yet delivered on. We must continue to address all these issues through peace and justice. Brother Jackson concluded his speech to a standing ovation. He then led the audience in singing "We Shall Overcome".

Tau Tau Chapter's Youth Leadership Conference

Building Manhood and Bringing Uplift to Southern California

By Brother George D. Taylor

Tau Tau Chapter, Compton, CA — October 24, 2009 — More than a hundred men of Omega Psi Phi Fraternity, Incorporated gathered, Saturday morning, at Compton College for business. The business was playing father or big brother to 255 middle and high school young men. The men of Omega dedicated their Saturday morning and afternoon, to do Omega's work- to stand shoulder-to-shoulder in an attempt to return 255 young African American and Latino men to their parents and guardians a little wiser about the principles and tenets of manhood, scholarship, perseverance and uplift.

Comedian/Actor Martin F. Lawrence was the major sponsor of the event. His two sisters traveled from the East coast to be present with the men of Omega and to represent The Chlora Lawrence Family Trust. In addition, there were corporate sponsors included, Northrop Grumman Corp, Union Bank Foundation, Pfizer Foundation, Boeing Company, and AT&T, Corinthian Colleges, Inc.

This was the 16th consecutive year that Tau Tau Chapter, under the leadership of Brother Ricky Lawrence Lewis hosted the Annual Youth Leadership Conference, El Camino College Compton Center South Los Angeles, California. The newly elected 12th District Representative, Brother Sedrick Spencer, was in attendance, and mandated that all Southern California Chapters actively participate.

The Compton Alumnae of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc. and the Tau Beta Omega Chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Inc. helped to register each of the participants and served as hostess.

Instead of the usual Youth Leadership Conference being exclusively for young boys, this year the program has been extended to include two full day programs in one. Day one dedicated for the youth, and day two, for their parents/guardians. During the session, Brother Ricky Lewis gave high praise for the support given by the 110 Omega Brothers from several chapters in Southern California, and the support from parents that have sustained the program for sixteen (16) years. "We see a renewed sense of urgency from the parents and young men," he said, and the feed back from them show we are moving in the right direction.

Brother Steven LaTreal McNair was born February 14, 1973 in Mount Olive, Mississippi to Selma and Lucille McNair. He confessed Christ at an early age and joined the Baptist Church.

Brother McNair attended Mount Olive High School in Mount Olive, Mississippi where he played football, baseball, and basketball in addition to running track. He was drafted out of high school to play professional baseball with the Seattle Mariners. However, Brother McNair's first love was football and only one university, Alcorn State, wanted him to play quarterback. There he won the 1994 Walter Payton Award as the top player in NCAA Division I-AA. At Alcorn State, he became the first player in collegiate history to accumulate 16,000 yards (16,823) of total offense, along the way setting 5 NCAA records and an additional 31 Division I-AA records. He then went on to become the third runner-up for the Heisman Award in 1995.

Brother McNair was drafted third overall by the NFL's Houston Oilers. He became the Oilers' starting quarterback in 1997 and in 1999; he took the Tennessee Titans to its first and only Super Bowl (XXXIV). In 2003, Brother McNair was named Co-MVP of the National Football League. He finished his NFL career with the Baltimore Ravens at the end of the 2006-2007 season. Brother McNair is one of only three players in the history of the NFL who passed for 30,000 yards and rushed for 3,500 yards.

On November 27, 2009, he was inducted into the Titans/Oilers Hall of Fame and newly created Ring of Honor. Brother McNair led the Oilers/Titans through the most successful five-year run in team history. He garnered repeated accolades for his grace, athleticism and dogged determination to win. Prior to and during his storied career, Brother McNair set benchmarks, broke stereotypes, and, at times, defied belief. Much like his play on the field, Brother Steve's work in the community was done without a desire to receive publicity for his efforts. He and Mechelle have received various recognitions for their community service, such as the Philanthropist Community Award. He was named as the 2005 Walter Payton Community Man of the Year. He was the recipient of the 40th Annual Byron "Whizzer" White Award, which is the NFL Players Association's highest honor and also the J.B. Award for Community Service.

As one of the last surviving members of the Baltimore Elite Giants, he would always make himself available for speaking engagements and personal appearances to highlight the contributions of the many Negro players who could no longer speak for themselves.
